USSR-UN: It seems unlikely at this time that Soviet Premier Kosygin will attend the UN anniversary celebrations from 14 to 24 October.

A Moscow press announcement listing the delegation to the 25th General Assembly session made no mention of Kosygin.

25X1

Although the Soviets have not foreclosed the possibility of Kosygin's appearance, it is unlikely for a number of reasons. For one, scheduling conflicts during the jubilee period would make such a visit difficult. The leader of the Soviet delegation is scheduled to speak before the General Assembly on 22 October, while Kosygin is committed to be in Moscow from 19 to 23 October because of the scheduled visit by Canadian Prime Minister Trudeau. Another Soviet leader could, of course, meet with Trudeau

25X1

Although the Soviets probably are not averse to a summit meeting with President Nixon, they have shown no interest in taking the initiative to arrange it. At present they may be reluctant to take up at such a high level sensitive issues such as the Middle East.
